of

BUCHU.

AT THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE

THE HOTTENTOT'S

Have long used

BUCHU
FOR A VARIETY OF DISEASES.

It was borrowed from those rude practitioners by the

ENGLISH AND DUTCH PHYSICIANS.

whose recommendation it was employed in Europe, and has now come into general use.

IT IS GIVEN CHIEFLY IN

Gout, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder,

MORBID IRRITATION

OF THE BLADDER AND URETHRA.

For Female Weakness and

DEBILITY.

For Prostatis and Bearing Down, or

Prostatis Uteri.

DISEASES OF THE PROSTATE GLAND.

RETENTION OR INCONTINENCE OF URINE.

And all cases requiring the aid of a diuretic acting from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation.

IT IS ALSO RECOMMENDED IN CASES OF

DYSPEPSIA,

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM,

Cutaneous Affections, and Dropsey.

To cure these diseases we must bring into action the muscles which are engaged in their various functions. To neglect them, however slight may be the attack, is sure to affect the bodily health and mental powers.

OUR FLESH AND BLOOD

are supplied from these sources.

PERSONS AT EVERY PERIOD OF LIFE,

From Infancy to Old Age.

and in every state of health, are liable to be subjects of these diseases.

THE CAUSES IN MANY INSTANCES ARE UNKNOWN.

The patient has, however, an admirable remedy in

GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

His Solid and Fluid Extracts embody the full weight of the properties of which they are named. They are left to the inspection of all. A ready and conductive test of their properties will be a companion with those set forth in the United States Dispensatory. These remedies are prepared by H. T. Helmold, druggist of sixteen years' experience in this country, and we believe them to be reliable; in fact we have never known an article lacking merit to meet with a permanent success, and Mr. Helmold's extract is certainly prima facie evidence. His Drug and Chemical Warehouse, in the City of New York, is not excelled, if equalled, by any in this country, and we would advise our readers, when visiting that city, to give him a call and judge for themselves.

NARROW ESCAPE—FILLED WITH BULLETS

(Pezza, Ill.) Democratic

that the Secretary of the Treasury interprets the law as exempting the principal as well as the interest of the public debt from the operation of the legal-tender act, and their acquiescence equally bound the government whether the interpretation was according to the original intention of Congress or not.

To this argument there are two answers, either of which, as we conceive, is conclusive.

In the first place, a law is not a letter of attorney, every known violation of which the law-making power is bound to disown on pain of becoming responsible for the consequences, but a fixed and solemn regulation, of which the citizen himself is bound to take notice, and which he neglects at his own peril. If the law is unequivocal, the law-making power is neither morally nor legally responsible for acts which the law does not warrant, and the law authorizing the issue of legal-tender notes as we have seen, is unequivocal. It is so plain "that he may run that readeth it."

The atmosphere is capable of bearing vast armadas of sounds, and let us freight them to their utmost capacity. There are very large numbers of our people, who, by reason of their physical infirmities, have long been unable to leave their homes after dark, but we hope that this occasion will strengthen the weak, imparts life to the nerves of the half-paralyzed, set the crippled upon their feet, and almost cause the dumb to shout and sing. A mighty enthusiasm has wrought wonders now.

But we must not rest satisfied to-night with manifestations of enthusiasm. The heroes who raise the resounding cry of victory upon the battle field do not forget that other victories are to be won.

The great and triumphant campaign of Democratic conservatism is not, although gloriously prosecuted, at an end. The vastly visible, but not only enthusiastic, but prudent, and resolved, and stern. We should proclaim to the country our sacred and well-considered principles, whether we do it in calm voices, or in stormy tones that the clouds shall render back as if echoing the beat of "the thunder-drum of heaven."

The World's ethical argument is as futile as its mathematical one. Both are wholly futile. And we may fairly conclude that the case does not admit of any better argument. If it did, we may be sure that so masterly a disputant as the Editor of the World would not have taken these excursions into the remote provinces of ethics and mathematics. He seeks for arguments abroad because the argument at home is unanswerably against him. In this way, he has not only won his case, but he has also won the world.

The Indians had gone from the ranch and kindly took care of the wounded man—conveyed him to the train and carried him to safety.

The Indians did not seem anxious to approach the train, and consulted together, about fifty yards off, for a few minutes, when they turned their ponies and rode away to the plains. He was fired at and speared at, and at last again surrounded. This happened four or five times, and still he fought on, shouting, calling for help, setting nearer to the train. When he got nearly there, the Indians dropped off, so there was but one, the old fellow who had struck him with his spear, in safety. Not feeling particularly friendly with him, he took him to the rear, and, after a moment of remembrance, attempted to fire at him with his revolver. At that moment he was struck in the region of the stomach by a shot that made him so sick that he was unable to get in the lead of the train at any rate.
